BIO

Cameron Lawler is responsible for leading company legal initiatives as the Staff Attorney at Peoples Company. Cameron works actively with company leadership in structuring strategic partnerships for the company and collaborates with team members in drafting real estate and farm management contracts. He works closely with Peoples Company's investment team in building private offering structures, preparing offering documents, and ensuring compliance with applicable regulations. He is also responsible for coordinating and maintaining relationships with external legal and financial professionals who provide specialized expertise to the business.

EDUCATION

Cameron is a member of the Iowa bar and earned his Juris Doctor from Drake University Law School. While in law school, he completed numerous legal internships to build expertise in agriculture and business. He interned first in Governor Kim Reynolds' office, conducting research on future policy priorities and providing recommendations to members of the Governor's staff. He then interned with the Iowa Corn Growers Association, completing policy analysis and strategic planning on actions to support grower profitability. Finally, Cameron was a law clerk at Brick Gentry, P.C., where he worked closely with the firm's agriculture team on livestock production and contract litigation, probate and estate planning matters, and USDA appeals.

Cameron is a native of Mitchellville, Iowa and earned his undergraduate degree in Agricultural Business at Northwest Missouri State University. He maintains active memberships in the American Agricultural Law Association, the Iowa State Bar Association, the Iowa Corn Growers' Association, and the Federalist Society.
